

ISMAIL YESIR, Master Student
Ismail.yesir@bison.howard.edu

I. Education

M.S. Computer Science, Howard University, Washington, DC, recently

Research interests include gamification, Augmented Reality games, human-computer interaction.

B.S. Computer Teaching Education, Kocaeli University, Kocaeli, Turkey, 2012

Participated in research groups at Kocaeli University to develop educational materials as educational material for Computer Science class in High school and middle school and designed interactive question platform design content and visual designs about Computer Science for high school students.

II. Research and Teaching Interest

Ismail Yesir's research focuses on human-computer interaction, especially gamification. Within this field, Mr. Yesir explores the intersection between human behavior and how it can be used both for improving interactions between humans and computers, as well as understanding how technology influences human behavior as using the Augmented Reality or Virtual Reality Games.

III. Fellowships, Honors, and Awards

Master Student, Republic of Turkey Ministry of National Education, 2015, present.

IV. Professional Positions

08/2018-Present	Master Student, Howard University
09/2013-01/2015	Student Advisor, The Charity organization called Ilim Yayma, Istanbul
09/2013-06/2014	Computer Teacher, Adil Erdem Bayazit Middle School, Istanbul, Turkey
09/2012-06/2013	Computer Teacher, Pendik High School, Istanbul, Turkey